

Paul Barrere & Fred Tackett

Paul Barrere and Fred Tackett are guitar players, in fact they are the guitar players with the legendary band Little Feat.....

Now they have joined forces to form an acoustic duet that will quite frankly blow you away. Performing songs from their Little Feat catalogue and more with a decidedly different twist. They first played together on the album "Dixie Chicken" some twenty-five years ago and since then have played together or individually on numerous recording sessions for Little Feat and countless others including Bonnie Raitt, Taj Mahal, Bob Dylan, Tom Waits, Dionne Farris, and the Wallflowers to name a few.

Paul Barrere has been a member of Little Feat since 1972, joining the band just after the release of "Sailing Shoes". He was hired on as he rhythm guitarist to back up Lowell George's cutting slide. His formal education was just beginning. Leaving his own band "The Led Enema" behind he earned degrees in scatology and phunk-logistics while studying with Mssrs George, Payne, Hayward, Radney and Clayton learning as a road's scholar. He has developed into a fine lead singer and songwriter as well as the band's slide guitarist over his many years with Little Feat adding his own brand of entendre Be-Bop. Born July 3, 1948 and raised in Hollywood, CA, both his parents were actors and his introduction and intoxication with show business came to him quite naturally.

Fred Tackett became a member of Little Feat in 1987 just before the making of "Let it Roll" but in a sense has been a member for a whole lot longer. He has been writing songs for and playing on recordings with Little Feat since 1972. The leading studio guitarists in Los Angeles since moving there in 1967 to join up with old friend Jimmy Webb. Fred's credits are really too numerous to list. Along with his many sessions, he found time to travel with Bob Dylan for 3 years, Bob Seger for 1 or of duty, and Boz Skaggs just as "Silk Degrees" was making discos almost tolerable. Born August 4, 1945 in Little Rock, AK, Fred says everyone in his family played the trumpet "cept Mom." He brings multi-faceted talents of guitar, mandolin and trumpet to the table with Mr. Barrere's guitar and voice in a much more intimate rendering of songs and stories from a well traveled road.
